FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Heavy Duty Cast Flush Weatherproof Cover from Bell

South Bend, Indiana March 20, 2018 – Bell is shipping the 4600RAC weatherproof cover. This flush fit cover features heavy-duty construction for outdoor protection and a keyed lock for security. Bell, part of Hubbell Commercial Construction, provides innovative electrical products to industrial, commercial and residential markets.

The Bell 4600RAC cover is designed for a flush fit with outdoor siding materials. It provides recessed weatherproof protection for electrical devices. It mounts easily to any 3-3/4in. through 4-11/16in. square box.

The 4600RAC includes 4-in-1 configuration options. Adapters are included for duplex or Decorator style receptacles, 2.125in. round 30-50A receptacles or single toggle switches. Mounting hardware and crosslinked polyethylene foam gasket are included.

Heavy duty die-cast aluminum construction provides NEMA 3R protection from the elements. The 4600RAC also includes a Cam lock to keep out unauthorized users. The two included keys can be removed from either the locked or unlocked positions.

Bell's heavy duty flush cover is intended for single gang applications. The design is optimized for use with masonry block walls but is capable of mounting to any finished wall surface. The heavy duty flush cover is ideal for use in health care, educational, institutional and hospitality applications.
